

Pep's Perfect Margaritas!

While I was always too young to indulge in my grandfather's margaritas (always served on Christmas Eve), I sure do enjoy them now from time to time with the recipe passed down to my mom. I love any margarita that skips the sour mix, but fair warning, these can be a bit strong. Sit back, relax and sip accordingly. ~ Whitney

INGREDIENTS

2 shots silver tequila (my favorite is Hornitos!)
1 shot triple sec
1 shot lime juice (I use Rose's)

Margarita salt (for glass)

1 lime

*Recipe makes one margarita

DIRECTIONS

Combine in shaker with lots of ice. Shake, shake, shake. Pour all contents into a salted rimmed margarita glass of your choosing. Garnish with lime (squeeze some wedges in there, too, for good measure!). For a festive pop during the holidays, toss in a few whole cranberries, or swap out the lime juice above with white cranberry juice and garnish the same way!
